Introduction to School Counseling

Introduction

School counselors play a significant role in improving student achievement and serve as student and systems advocates. They apply their professional training in schools in order to support student academic success. Through a comprehensive school counseling program of developmental, preventive, remedial and responsive services, school counselors address academic development, career development and personal/social development of students.

Through leadership, advocacy, collaboration and data analysis, school counselors will focus on the goal of improving student achievement, provide the necessary behavioral support to students and create the changes necessary to impact the system. As leaders and advocates, school counselors will promote, assess and implement this Comprehensive P-12 School Counseling Plan.

School Counselors will use disaggregated data to drive program and activity development which will enable them to meet the needs of all students and close the achievement gap. The school counseling program will be data driven and will be evaluated annually and modified based on results to ensure that every student achieves success.

Through the use of a data-driven/results-based and standards-based model, school counselors will follow the recommended practice of providing:

- Counseling
- Coordination
- Consultation
- Advocacy
- Teaming and Collaboration

The Byron-Bergen Counseling Department has examined their current counseling practices and services and has aligned them with the American School Counseling Association (ASCA), the ASCA National Model and the expectations of the New York State Education Department.

We are proud to present the Byron-Bergen Comprehensive K-12 School Counseling Plan.

What is a School Counseling Program?

A School Counseling Program is “comprehensive in scope, preventative in design and developmental in nature.” It is designed so that the majority of the school counselor’s time is spent in direct service to all students so as to ensure that every student receives the maximum benefit from the program. A comprehensive school counseling program focuses on what all students from seventh grade through grade twelve should know and understand in three domain areas: academic, career, and personal/social with an emphasis on academic success for every student.

The program is preventive in design with a purpose of conveying specific skills and learning opportunities in a proactive and preventive manner. School counselors design programs and services to meet the needs of students at the appropriate developmental stages. Therefore, their responsibilities should be directed toward program delivery and direct counseling services.

The standard for academic development is to implement strategies and activities that support and maximize student learning. This would include “acquiring knowledge and skills that contribute to effective learning in school and across the lifespan, employing strategies to achieve success in school and understand the relationship of academics to the world of work, life at home and in the community.”

The standard for career development is to provide a foundation for “acquiring skills, attitudes and knowledge that enables students to make a successful transition from school to the world of work and from job to job across the life career span.”

The standard for personal/social development is to provide a foundation for personal and social growth as the students’ progress through school and into their adult life. “Personal/social development includes the acquisition of skills, attitudes and knowledge that help students understand and respect self and others, acquire effective interpersonal skills, understand safety and survival skills and develop into contributing members of our society.”

A school counseling program:

- Reaches every student
- Is comprehensive in scope
- Is preventative in design
- Is developmental in nature
- Is an integral part of the educational program for student success
- Is implemented by a credentialed school counselor
- Is conducted in collaboration with all stakeholders
- Uses data to drive program decisions
- Monitors student progress

ASCA Standards

All members of the Student Support Services Team follow a set of standards specific to their area of expertise that allows them to effectively meet student needs. The ASCA Mindsets and Behaviors are organized by domains, and standards arranged within categories and subcategories. Each is described below.

Domains:

The ASCA Mindsets and Behaviors are organized in three broad domains: academic, career and social/emotional development. These domains promote mindsets and behaviors that enhance the learning process and create a culture of college and career readiness for all students. The definitions of each domain are as follows:

- Academic Development- Standards guiding school counseling programs to implement strategies and activities to support and maximize each student's ability to learn.
- Career Development - Standards guiding school counseling programs to help students
 - Understand the connection between school and the world of work
 - Plan for and make a successful transition from school to postsecondary education and/or the world of work and from job to job across the lifespan.
- Social/Emotional Development - Standards guiding school counseling programs to help students manage emotions and learn and apply interpersonal skills.

Standards:

All standards can be applied to the three domains that are listed above, and the school counselor will select a domain and standard based on the needs of the school, classroom, small group or individual. The standards are arranged within categories and subcategories and are based on general categories of non-cognitive factors related to academic performance.

- Category 1: Mindset Standards - includes standards related to the psycho-social attitudes or beliefs students have about themselves in relation to academic work. These make up the students' belief system as exhibited behaviors.
- Category 2: Behavior standards- includes behaviors commonly associated with being a successful student. These behaviors are visible, outward signs that a student is engaged and putting forth effort to learn. The behaviors are grouped into three subcategories.
 - Learning Strategies- processes and tactics students employ to aid in cognitive work or thinking, remembering and learning.
 - Self-Management Strategies- continued focus on a goal despite obstacles and avoidance of distractions or temptations to prioritize higher pursuits over lower pleasures (delayed gratification, self-discipline, self-control).
 - Social Skills- acceptable behaviors that improve social interactions, such as those between peers or between peers and adults.
